An International Woodworkers of America move to eliminate geographic representation on the federation's new executive council resulted in a 170 to 170 vote.

The chair found itself in the peculiar position that it could not cast the deciding ballot to break the tie.

Dan Radford, president of the old B.C. Federation of Labor (CCL), and Vic Midgley, vice-president of the B.C. Trade Union Congress, are joint chairmen for the three-day convention of 400 B.C. union leaders representing 100,000 workers from all over B.C.

LIQUOR HEADS LOSE APPEAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Court of Appeal Friday dismissed an appeal of A. L. McLennan, George W. Norgan and other defendants who are being sued for $2,500,000.

The suit was brought against them by a group of shareholders of United Distillers of Canada Ltd. They allege misappropriation of company funds and falsification of company books. The Appeal Court ruled the defendants must answer questions on examinations for discovery. They had claimed privilege on the grounds the answers might incriminate them.

B.C. TANK REGIMENT MENTIONED

Simonds, Canadian Soldiers Praised by U.K. Magazine

LONDON (CP)—Basically, Canada is one of the least warlike of all countries. Her "great" military reputation rests not on generals, but on ordinary soldiers.

That is the conclusion of the British magazine, The Economist, which this week turns over most of its book section to a review of two re-cent military histories pub-lished in Canada. They are Official History of the Cana-dian Army in the Second World War, by army historian Col. C. P. Stacey, and Volume II, the Canadians in Italy, 1943-45, by Lieut.-Col. G. W. L.

2. The predominantly Canadian raid on Dieppe, Aug. 19, 1942, has sometimes been regarded as having been execugarded as having been executed merely to give the Canadians a little blood-letting. Col.
Stacey's "careful, austere" narrative, says The Economist, disposes of such "myths."

3. British officers sometimes

In fact, says The Economist, the volumes show how loyally the Canadian high command fell in with the requirements. fell in with the requirements of a grand strategy which they had no real hand in deter-

The magazine concludes "Canada's great reputation as a warrior nation rests not on its generals, but on the embattled farmers of the South Saskatchewan Regi-ment on the beach at Pourment on the beach at Pourville, the bankers and insurance clerks of the Black

'WORTHWHILE RISK'

Victoria Girl Refuses To Quit Israel

By ANNE SKELTON

"You stay here at your owr risk!" Miss Patterson at the Canadian Embassy in Tel-Aviv informed me on Friday, Noto make up my mind whether I wanted a seat on a plane bound for Athens. One hour is a very short time. But, in five minutes I had decided that I would stay in Israel. Five months in this modern Jewish state had confirmed in me the wish to see the original purpose for my visit fulfilled—to study at the Hebrew Uni-

BECAME CLOUDED

Perhaps, I thought the university will still open as scheduled, and more miraculously, perhaps this whole crisis will blow over. University did open, but the political picture became more and more

Last February the Canadian Friends of the Hebrew University had offered me a scholarship by which my tu-ition fees at the Hebrew University would be paid for one year of studying. I jumped at this chance to come to Israel for I wished to begin, work on my MA in Comparative Religion, and what better chance to study Judaism this Israel? There were some in Israel? There were some drawbacks, admittedly.

would have to spend the summer learning Hebrew in order to attend lectures in the late fall, and I would be going to a part of the world where border attacks and c seemed quite fashionable When I left New York on June 1, I had no clear picture of what living in a state subjected constantly to fedayeen raids would be like. I had lived near the United States border for the last 10 years, and I could not imagine that a border zone could be a dang-erous place to live.

TENSE SUMMER

The events of the last three weeks are only the climax of a summer of mounting ten-sion. Every time an unarmed citizen was murdered by an people of Israel asked what kind of armistice ag were being observed. when two or three attacks in their Arab neighbors did not want peace, they would launch a well-planned military attack on a fortified police station or fedayeen base. This Halloween, Israeli soldiers were engaged on a bigger campaign—the wiping out of all fedayeen stations in the Sinai Desert.

'The victories of the Israeli forces in the south have only spirited the eastern gangs of raiders on to do bigger and better things. It is not safe to travel on the Jerusalem-Tel-Aviv road at night; it is never safe to travel by train from Haifa to Jerusalem. The border settlements are under continual attack and communication lines are being cut every night. When I walk in Jerusalem, I do not have a choice of many routes, for Jordan surrounds the Israeli art of the Holy City on three peace, for she lives continu ally in a state of undeclared

We Must Have More Schools

struction referendum to be submitted to them next month the pro-perty-owners of Greater Victoria are confronted by two impressive facts and one specific decision they must make on the basis of those facts.

The first fact is that children in this community need more class-rooms and other facilities required by modern education. Against roughly 17,000 students enrolled in classes between Grades 1 and 12 at present, conservative estimates set the total student body at more than 20,000 by 1960.

Even now, before the influx of another 3,000 children, 49 classes are taught in substandard accommodation. Ten of them are located in basements, 18 in old annexes, nine in auditoriums and 12 in portable units.

The second fact confronting the voters is a construction program fixed at a minimum cost over the next five years of $5,600,000—half to be paid by the province.

The decision to be reached is whether or not the property-owners should support the board's program to provide the requirements of Greater Victoria's school children.

As the public moves toward its decision, certain points should be kept in mind. The building program and the means of financing it have been determined by members of the board after detailed study. The proposals set forth by the trustees have been approved by the Provincial Government—a financially interested And the men and women who prepared the program are the men and women whom voters of Greater Victoria elected to look after the community's educational inter-

It is difficult for the ordinary citizen to grasp all the details of the program. Few have the time or the opportunity to dig out and study the information they require to form sound judgments on all particulars.

The ordinary citizen can, however, grasp certain broad principles. And he should give thought to the board's reason for asking approval of a referendum to raise the money the whole project.

The authorities have drawn up estimates of needs and costs for different schools in Greater Victoria. They do not intend to launch the construction of all of them immediately. They could not even if they wished to. Manpower and materials for such a large program are not available.

But the trustees do want authority to borrow so they can take advantage of a favorable money market when it occurs and so that they can finance now some of the work most urgently needed. It is the authority they want, though actual floating of loans may be spread over the next five years.

This is not a request to the public for a blank cheque amounting to $5,600,000. The money is earmarked particular work which will be detailed in the news columns of this paper over the next few weeks. But if the board is given authority to borrow when it considers conditions suitable for borrowing, it can proceed without unnecessary delay. Because an earlier building program was turned down by the voters two years ago, the provision of adequate school accommodation for this community's young people is running a year behind schedule.

If it is further delayed, the whole community will suffer, and particularly those children to whom education is a Canadian birthright.

On One Small Front—Peace

IF IT IS POSSIBLE TO EXTRACT any cheerful development from the turmoil of today's world, it may come from an announcement by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Associa-

Said the secretary-manager of that organization: "Many of the executive members indicated they the great change which has taken place in world affairs during recent days had made the situation such that Canada should not consider competing in Russia" for the world hockey championship.

So now peace may fall on one troubled front. The last time Canada won the championship, the feat was accomplished with an astounding lack of grace. The last time Canada competed, the Maple Leaf team was beaten.

Had it intended to take part in the next world championship the wrangling would have continued on what constitutes an amateur hockey player and why shouldn't Canada send over its best NHL team, amateurism and professionalism being a matter of such fine shading in the sport.

By not sending a team, this country has closed off war on one Now it can concentrate the battles of the domestic rinks. with particular attention to Montreal and the Galahad influence of Les Canadiens and their fans.

As Our Readers See It

Rotten Law

In your paper dated Saturday, Nov. 10, 1956, I was shocked to read the details under the caption "Amateur Truckers Pay Fires" ers Pay Fines.

Apparently four people were fined in Colwood police court for carrying more than 300 pounds in their own vehicles. It states further that three of the four people were transporting wood back to the city.

We all know that there is a serious shortage of firewood. In order to pro-cure supplies for the winter a lot of people are going out into the country including Colwood, Langford and the Malahat to cut their own wood. They then have the problem of getting this wood to their homes. The natural and most sensible thing to do if you have a vehicle of your own is to haul it yourself. If of your own is to haul it yourself. If your vehicle is capable of hauling more than 300 pounds per trip you are not going to haul less.

Unless there was some other form illegality, I will be more convinced of this country of ours are absolutely rotten until I read that the attorney-general has ordered these convictions quashed and the fines returned.

The Right to Affirm

It is reported that a Montreal Superior Court judge ruled that testimony may not be accepted from a witness who does not believe in Heaven and Hell. Judge Prevost refused to allow the plain tiff in a damage action to give evidence under oath, because she belongs to the Mission de L'Esprit Saint, a Protestant sect which does not believe in reward or punishment after death.

Why was this witness not allowed to why was this witness not allowed to make solemn affirmation? It cannot be too widely *known that The Canadian Evidence Act of 1927 (ch. 58, sec. 15) allows affirmation where the witness has "conscientious scruples," i.e., presumwhen that witness considers it wrong to take an oath or has no religio cometh of evil."

Surely this is a wide enough condemnation of the "Bible" oath from the very book that Christians are offered in court. And when will the disgustingly insanitary performance of kissing the book be abolished? Many eminent, lawyers are in favor of simple affirmation. The penalties for perjury are, of course, exactly the same whether the Bible oath or af-firmation is used by a witness.

I call on our lawyers to express their views on this important matter with reasoned argument for or against. RATIONALIST

The Full Cost of the Disaster

IT will take a long time to add up the full cost of the disaster in the Middle East, but its chief effect is already pretty The most strategically vital reg modern world has been handed the Kremlin on a silver platter-with the American government as a r-bearer. Or, putting another way, the American government has energetically assist-ed in installing Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser as the Soviet viceroy of the Arab That is almost sure to be the practical result of recent

Their true aim was to topple Nasser from his position of vast influence and power throughout Pan-Arabia. Nasser was in fact toppled—for he could never have survived his humiliating military defeat by the Israelis without active American and Soviet help.

Intense Pressure

But the Egyptian Humpty-Dumpty was parallel Soviet and American action in the United Nations, partly by intense American pressure on our Allies, and partly by the apparent Western surrender

The last factor is the most significant, since all Arabs are now convinced that the Egyptian cease-fire was granted in response to the Bulganin ultimatum to Britain and France.

The state department, which used to call Nasser a Soviet stooge, now portrays him as full of gratitude to us. He has, it appears, been very nice to our new ambassador in Cairo, Raymond Hare. But in fact everyone with first-hand knowledge of the Middle East is con-vinced that the department's former view of Nasser is now more correct than ever

Nasser's psychology is such that he will surely consider recent American actions were largely motivated by fear of the Soviets. He will feel that the United States and the other leading Western powers turned and ran as soon as the Soviets began fingering a gun. Far more than in the past, he will look to the Soviet Union as his guide and pro

If Nasser had been toppled it would have been like the slap on the face that doctors recommend as a cure for hysteria. The Arab Nationalists would have stopped screaming and drumming their heels on the floor, and would have started dealing

They might then have begun to act as serious Nationalists, offering constructive programs for their own countries, and forthrightly seeking a constructive accommodation with the Western nations.

But since Humpty-Dumpty has been put back on the wall again, the opposite effects can be anticipated. Nasser's fol-lowers in other Arab lands will of course take notice of the Israeli's brilliant vic-tory. They will be chilled by the demonstration that Nasser's vaunted military

What now must be expected, therefore, is the progressive collapse of every remaining position in the Middle East, under the assault of the Nasser-led Arab Nationalist movement.

Arab Nationalism will now be more flamed than ever because of the fruitless attempt to topple its leader. It will be more confident than ever because of the apparent Western surrender to the recent

Soviet Protectors

It will be more Soviet-influenced than ever because not only Nasser, but the Arab Nationalists everywhere will now tend to accept the Soviets as their guides and protectors. And the Soviets will use the Arab Nationalists, cooly and ruthlessly, as instruments to cut the Western alliance's oil jugular in the Middle East.

There are other probable consequences f the Middle Eastern disaster, such as the replacement of the present British Labor cabinet, the onset of political chaos in France, and so on. But this storm which is shaking the whole Western alliance to its foundations still chiefly centres in the Middle East. Maybe the Brit-

Beside the Blue Danube fact of itself explains the present tragedy

ALL Canadians have lately been think-ing about a distant city called Buda-pest and what it represents in the long and tragic struggle for human freedom. But not many Canadians, I imagine, can picture that city itself since few have seen it. Actually it is not at all like the tures. It is, or was when I saw it, far more beautiful than that. Of all that cities I have seen I think it is the most beautiful and almost solely because men made it so.

A city like London, with its great, gleaming Thames and the green country side Hutchison around it, a city like Montreal on a mountain and an island, or San Francisco on a sheltered inlet of the sea, or Vancouver snuggling between the Coast Range and the Fraser, starts out with every physical advantage. Budapest started out with practically nothing. THE blue Danube of the Strauss waltz is, in fact, an ugly, dirty brown river carrying more mud than romance. The vast plain of Hungary between Vienna and Budapest is as flat as the plain of southern Saskatchewan and looks just as big when you drive across it.

Budapest sits astride the Danube, the

site must have been no more than, say, the site of Winnipeg or Regina But there the Hungarians conceived and brought forth a civic masterpiece the like of which America has yet to produce and may never produce. I ONDON and Paris, for example, have often been described in prose and erry. The vertical, geometric beauty York can be grasped by the camera. Music has given us a definite picture, true or false, of Vienna. If there is any revealing poem about Budapest I have not read it, since no one but a Magyar can read the Magyar, and the camera shows nothing but a few spires beside the Danube.

Wate rshed

The traveler is thus amazed when he finds himself entering this city (especially if he enters it, as I did, in a dying automobile which finally expired in the middle of the main river bridge. at the five o'clock rush hour, held up the whole traffic of Budapest and was car-ried away with its passengers by six furious policemen, screaming in an un-known language).

AT that time, before the last war, Buda-A reat time, before the last war, Buda-pest had become, they told me, the centre of European fashion since Paris was sick with economic depression and Vienna ruined by the loss of its empire. At first sight, therefore, Budapest seemed to possess what I would call a blinding, unimaginable glamour, if that word had not been debased by Hollywood out of

SCORE of orchestras played gypsy music in the hotel gardens frontin on the river and even a dull-witted Cana-dian sitting there over his wine was likely to lose his head. Toy ships, ablaze with light, moved up and down the river, the bridges were spangled like golden cobwebs and across a pool of silver the hill of the opposite bank swarmed with silver palaces, domes, minarets and towers all gleaming in cunning floodlights. This spectacle was quite unreal, an artificial stage set on a gigantic scale, sure to fade at dawn.

Well, it did fade at dawn and that

The slums behind that wonderful false front were unbelievable, the life of the people unthinkable. Those dark can-

Spirited Comment on the Day of Shame

A CKNOWLEDGING that Bruce Hutchi-A son is an experienced political writer, his article in The Victoria Daily Times of November 15 is so incorrect in many of its statements and innuendoes that it howls to high heaven for answer.

The quotation that is given from The Calgary Herald, "Tuesday, October 30th, will go down in Canada's history as a day of shock and shame;" is not actual; it was not October 30th but ovember 2nd when Canada at the United Nations abstained from voting on the cease fire resolution. Australia, New Zealand, France and Israel voted against this resolution because of the implica-tions of the wording, (Ed. Note: The of the wording. Herald was correctly quoted. The edi-torial referred to the October 30 vote on U.N. discussion of the Suez problem, Can-ada voting in favor of discussion.)

No Great Cause

The simple fact that Canada abstained from voting on this particular resolution is in itself no great cause for shock or shame. The shock and shame came after the vote was taken, when Mr. Pear son in explaining why Canada did not vote, stated very clearly why he should either have moved an amendment to the motion or have voted against it. He did neither. He abstained.

For an entire day our representatives at the United Nations listened, as did some of us, to the false and violent charges made against Britain and France to the false and violent by many Communist and other countries, and not one word on that sad day was said in rebuttal by Canada. Surely this is cause enough for shock and shame

Not Aggressors

On that day, November 2nd, 1956, it could have been argued by our represen-tatives at the United Nations General Assembly that Britain and France were not aggressors, for when Britain pulled out of the Suez Canal zone, there was an agreement between London and Cairo which says in part: . . . "In the event of an armed attack by an outside power on any country which . . . is a party to on any country which . . . is a part the treaty of joint defence between Arab League states . . . Egypt shall afford to the United Kingdom such facilities as may be necessary to place the (Suez) base on a war footing and to operate it effectively."

This agreement, which is Clause 4 of the Anglo-Egyptian agreement of October 19, 1954, clearly applied in the situation then existing. Egypt was athave argued this point, or are we to be lieve that our experts at the United Na- our representatives at the United Nations tions were unaware of these facts? Other arguments are so obvious that it was truly a shame that Canada was silent. How could Britain be accused of war-like aggression when her Prime Minister and her able representative at the United Nations informed the world at large that Britain and France had intervened in a form of police action to stop a war already in progress between Israel and Egypt, which conflict, if not stopped, promptly, might inflame the whole Middle East and endanger world shipping in the Suez Canal, etc.

Necessary Action

The British and French representa-tives at the United Nations informed the General Assembly on November 2nd that the action taken by them was neces-sary to prevent further bloodshed and to bring a just and lasting peace to the Middle East; and further, that they would M. Idle East; and further, that they would be not only willing but relieved to turn over the further policing to a United Nations force if, and when, created to insure justice and peace.

These observations fell on barren ground as far as Canada was concerned or no word was said, no argument along ese lines used by our representatives the United Nations on that sad and

I state emphatically that if there are any of that opinion by Victoria, we know them

Clearly Pointed Out

None of the letters appearing in the cal papers in support of the British and French action, so humanely carried out, give any indication of this sort of thing to the unbiased reader. All of the articles by U.S. and other reliable military mentators as published in the local other Canadian papers, clearly point out Britain's policy and action to be both

Surely it is not hysteria but, on the contrary, a cold appraisal of the facts as they were known which led many thinking Canadians to question the actions of

Is it hysteria for "people hereabouts" to rely in this instance on the judgment of the Prime Minister of Great Britain? A man who, perhaps because he has served his Sovereign honorably on the battlefield, is and always has been a man of peace, besides speaking several Middle Eastern languages, has spent many years of study of Middle Eastern affairs, and who, because of his awful responsibilities, must be ever informed of Russian communistic moves there and

Sir Winston Churchill relied on this man during our trials in the last war and is supporting him now

On the Other Hand

Most certainly Canada need not always accept the foreign policy of Britain, nor of any other country. We are a sovereign nation and proud of it; but surely Canada should look deeply and well before she not only breaks with Great Britain but with Australia and New Zealand on a matter of such importance to all of us and, in fact, the Canada, as represented by Lester Pearson on Nov. 2, might at the UNations have argued for Britain, posed an amendment to the original motion, and, if the amendment had been defeated, whatever action he might then have taken would surely have been more honorable and need not have given cause for shock and shame.

Disappointed

It is disappointing to read such double-talk as there is in the article so aptly entitled: "The Voice of Hysteria." As one example of this, I quote the following from the penultimate para

'It is only in Canada, apparently, that a man can be accused of selling out his decency and honor because he does not denounce his government."

In spite of mistakes which may or may not have been made in our actions or in our thinking in these recent trying days, we must ever remember in unity there is strength, and we in Canada mu there is strength, and we in Canada must not become divided. The errors in judg-ment, political and otherwise, can be argued out and fought over at some later date, but in these critical days, let us show a united Canada, as well as a United Commonwealth, to our wherever they may be.

As well as being united, let us t

There was a time when the common law alone governed the conduct of men. It never suffered fools gladly. "Let the buyer beware" it said, and refused to protect the sucker. But in the course of time, with the spread of popular education and its consequences (among which is public opinion) an immense new field of fools was revealed. As our store of knowledge increased, so did the vastness of knowledge increased, so did the vaccinor of our ignorance. Something had to be done, for the majority was fast becoming fleeced by the rapacious clients of the common law, and protect the fools from their folly.

One of the first things equity invented was the notion of avoiding definition, which roused great ire among the lawyers. "Nothing is certain any longer!" they cried and stout old Selden wrote feelingly of equity as a roguish thing, varying with the length of the Chancellor's foot. (The Lord Chancellor being the dispenser of this new and radical justice.)

But the lawyers soon fixed that. They couldn't beat it, so tiley joined it, and after several centuries of grim subterranean struggle, a judge of the Naughty Nineties said "This court is not a court of conscience," and the Chancellor's foot disappeared from

T ONDON-We were discussing unusual stories when an Australian among us told the weird tale of Mrs. Sheilah Baulch which happened just a couple of weeks ago.

Mrs. Baulch, a woman in her early forties, was knocked unconscious in a streetcar acci-ne. She was rushed to the Royal Melbourne Hospital but it was too late. doctor there examined her and pronounced her dead. He signed the death certificate and the body was put in an ambulance to be taken to the morgue.

On the way there the ambulance stopped at police headquarters while the driver picked up a policeman to help him get the into the morgue. It was late evening when they arrived there and only a constable was on duty. He entered the details in the reception room and then wheeled the body into the room that nontained the freezing chamber.

Before he pulled back the big steel door and put the body in with the other corpses he began a routine search for valuables and docu-nts, to be put aside for safe keeping. Then, as he went through the clothir Then, as he went through the clothing of the woman who lay there cold and motionless with eyes wide open and staring, he was startled to see one of the eyes close and open again. An eerie feeling came over him. He ad no reason to doubt that she was dead, but as he watched her closely again the eyes closed and opened and the muscles of the face called the other policeman in and pered: "She's still alive. But for whispered: "She's still alive. But for heaven's sake don't mention we're in the morgue—she might hear you." They got the ambulance driver in and by then the woman's arms and legs had started to move. The ambulance man felt her throat and detected a strong pulse beat.

Hurriedly they put her back on the ambulance stretcher and took her out to the ambulance. It was as they were speeding back to the hospital that she regained consciousness and, looking up at one of the men beside her in the back of the ambulance, she said: "Am I dead?" They reassured her that she had merely had an accident and was being taken to hospital. being taken to hospital.

At the hospital the reception officer was stounded when the ambulance man said: 'We've brought back your 'dead on arrival'." And he was even more amazed when he was told that she was now alive. She was examined again, treated for brasions on the head and allowed to go home by taxi.

The Australian who was telling us the story said: "The hospital officials made the understatement of the year when they said, This is a most regrettable incident.' Just by a matter of seconds that woman avoided being frozen to death in a sound-proof chamber among corpses. Afterwards she said: 'If it was death I was close to, then death is a bitter, terrifying coldness'."

Literary Magazine Will Fill Vacancy

The first issue of Canada's newest little magazine—
The Tamarack Review—has just reached this desk. This is a matter of importance for those of us who like to read books by our fellow countrymen because, in the past at any rate, some of our best writers got off to a start in the small-circulation literary magazines. None of these periodicals has ever lasted more than a decade, but they are always succeeded by another similarly brave venture.

The Tamarack Review comes at a particularly opportune time, With the passing of John Sutherland, and with him his Northern Review, this country was getting awfully short on literary periodicals. If The Tamarack Review can help fill the gap its existence will be justified.

In one sense it is off to a good start. The fiction is a nice blending of the established and sensitive writers and some auspicious "firsts"—also sensitive. Poetry, in this issue, is represented by Jay Macpherson and it is no better and no worse than the poetry our people are producing these days.

There is a travelogue by Ethel Wilson and Mrs. Wilson can always handle prose right well.

There are some critical articles which would have been better if they had been more spirited. The book reviews are generally pretty deadly dull and not so informative either.

Now this is a first issue and I regard it with the benignity I know most of those six editors, and dare to be adventurous but firm—but not so firm that they are stodgy.

Whether or not this will happen is a toss-up and I must confess that the lead editorial is not very reassuring. This publication has six editors! If the editorial was written by all six it will explain the strange mixture of styles which are packed into two pages. If the editorial was written by one of the six, the other five ought to have jumped on his neck until he said "Uncle".

Any harbinger of a new day in Canadian writing which will print the following ought to be rapped over the knuckles—"Yee all kinds of writing flourish and wither together, like flowers in a garden, each with its own color and fragrance, watered by the same gardeners."

In "The Old West Speaks," which Prentice-Hall published recently, Howard R. Driggs recounts many of the stories he heard direct from the lips of early 19th century trappers, who built a nation out of a wilderness. The book is illustrated with 37 full-page, full-color reproductions of the famous paintings of William Henry Jackson.

Mr. Chase has twisted into a completely new language form, words, (warts) of the English (chaguish) tongue which in their own context are wholly meaningful, recognizable and, for the most part, pronounce-able.

Lumped into sentences the text at first glance looks like a wilderness. The book is illustrated with 37 full-page, full-color reproductions of the famous paintings of William Henry Jackson.

To mark Young Canada's Book Week, sponsored by the Canadian Library Association during the week of Nov. 15 to 22, the Victoria Daily Times has asked the children of editorial staff members to read and report on Of Indian Boy some recent publications in the juvenile field. Here are (Reviewed By Wendy Baker, Aged 10) SHOE THE WILD MARE, by Edmund Gilligan.

SHOE THE WILD MARE; by Edmund Gilligan. Published by Alfred A. Knopf. 112 pages. $2.50.

This is the story of a boy, Daniel, and his horse, Limerick. Daniel got Limerick when he was only a colt. After Daniel had had Limerick a while, something happened. Daniel's uncle was hurt in a boat accident and Daniel's mother and father had to get money to help him.

A man from the government came to ask if they would sell Limerick to him so he could ship the horse to an island so the people could breed him to a band of wild mares on the island. The stallions there weren't good enough and the mares were producing poor colts.

Daniel's father said of course he didn't have to, but Daniel thought he should because it would be best. So off he went to say goodbye to his stallion Limerick.

When the supply boat came in, Daniel took Limerick on to the boat so he wouldn't get frightened.

When they got to the island, seeing there was no dock, they had to let Limerick down in the water in a sling and let him swim to shore.

Limerick met with many adventures on the island, but in the end Daniel got him back, thank goodness.

Boys and girls who like horses should certainly enjoy this book because I enjoyed the book and I certainly like

Hey, Kids! Like a Trip to New York? Try This Christmas Coloring Contest

Many Fine Prizes For Young Artists

At the same time they give little people all over the country a chance at a stack of wonderful prizes in the little people's Christmas coloring contest. That means you, if you're 10 years old or under!

years old or under!

The whole thing is very simple kids. There will be four sketches to color, three of them showing how the little people help Santa out, and the final one showing the results of their work. The first sketch appears with this story. The other two will appear on Saturday, Nov. 24; Wednesday, Nov. 28, and Saturday, Dec. 1, respectively.

All children 10 or under have an equal chance to win local prizes and national contest prizes. And to top everything off, there will be a grand prize in the national contest.

How would you like a three day trip to New York with your mother or dad, all expenses paid, a chance to see the wonderful sights of America's largest city?
Highlight of the trip will be a personal appearance with Steve Allen, the star of NBC TV's
"The Steve Allen Show." on Sunday, Dec. 23 (8 to 9 p.m.) In addition to the New Yorktrip, the grand prize winner will also be given a brand-new

On Television Danny Kaye Plays World

Kaye makes an unprecedented television debut simultaneously in 11 countries Dec. 2—in a 90-minute program for which he gets exactly nothing.

"I'm doing this program as a public service because it's very rewarding." Danny explained as he sat in the sunny living room of his home in a canyon near Beverly Hills.

to air their views at a public hearing Friday, Nov. 30.

The hearing was set at the first meeting Friday of the city council's trades licence committee.

In the meantime, Ald. Don Smith's committee will ferret out facts on the present system, which he charges is depriving the city of up to $175,000 annual revenue.

The two-man committee of Ald. Smith and Ald. Austin Curtis (Ald. Macmillan volunteered to serve when no other alderman would, but never made of ficial application to the mayor), the first meeting Friday, Nov. 30.

The tin harmony but not committee should deal first with the existing by-law, secondly give consideration to recommending a business tax and finally arrange the public hearing.

Ald. Curtis agreed, but he went on record as preferring to wait for a report from the UECM and a government review of the situation across the province before suggesting any changes to the present regulations.

ALL CONTRACTS To Pacific Coast AWARDED ON PGE EXTENSION Predicted By MP All contracts have now been let on the Peace River extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway from Prince George to Fort St. John, an official said Friday.

"Work is proceeding according to schedule and within the cost originally estimated at $30,000,000," the official said. It is hoped that the 320-mile extension will be completed fate in 1957 or early 1958.

The line would cost an estimated $100,000,000 and is the most logical development to provide an outlet for increasing volumes of Western Canada oil, he said.

their vests in pride over the way "our Victoria teams" took part in B.C. and western Canada finals.

They point to these happenings as concrete proof that foot-oall is coming of age in Victoria and is nearing the stature of a major sport.

But let's stop fooling ourselves

Sure, Royai Roads lost out to Vancouver in the B.C. junior final and Oak Bay Drakes came within one point of going into the Canadian intermediate final.

At least 80 per cent of the Royal Roads club comes from east-ern Canada. The only reason they represented Victoria is that the Canadian Services College happens to be here and we are fortunate to borrow the football services the players learned on the Prairies and in eastern Canada.

The Oak Bay Drakes, founded in Victoria and sponsored locally, has a good number of locally-born players who learned their football here. But the main stars of the team, guys like Tommy Sanregret, Rich Ginn, Eno Marchteller, Ted Koska Gordie Hemingway and Joe Kurylo, must be called amateur

We Don't Have Player Source

In Vancouver, Edmonton or Toronto, when a junior or intermediate coach calls his first practice, he can expect a turn-out of players who learned their fundamentals in junior high in high sch

Here, a coach must take players anywhere from 18 to 25, show them a football and tell them which end is which. The average boy who turns out for football here knows only what he has picked up from his television set and the idiot box told that the possibility of Canadian football being included on the high school sports curriculum has been cussed loosely in past years, but such talk always petered out for a lack of facts to overcome the obvious objections. First of all, before the game could be seriously considered, a full set of facts would have to be presented to the high school sports council and to the principals of every school.

Objections Not Too Difficult

Here are the objections I know would be voiced: 1. The expense would be too great. No school could afford to equip a 24-30-player squad.

2. The game is difficult to coach and schools do not like to bring in outside coaches for any sport.

3. A high school league would conflict with a city league league and either one would suffer as a consequence.

Let's try to answer those questions, working backwards. First of all, the question of conflicting seasons.

Vancouver gets around this problem nimbly by playing Vancouver gets around this problem nimbly by playing their high school football in the spring. Majority of the players complete their prep season and then join a city league team could be solved by starting with six-man football.

Under a six-man setup, 12 to 15 players could be outfitted for about $400 with equipment that will be good for three or four years. There is a sporting goods store in Seattle that caters to high school teams, selling them used but first-class college equipment at a rock-bottom price.

As for coaching, the six-man game is fast, wide open, and gives every player a solid foundation in the game, but without the need for intricate plays and blocking required in 12-man football. The game could be taught easily out of an instruction book by any interested teacher.

book by any interested teacher.

Those are just a few ideas I have been nibbling on and I hope to offer more on this topic in the future.

If you have any ideas or opinions, I'd like to hear them. What I would like to see some day is for Victoria to turn out enough good football players so that we can honestly talk about "our Victoria teams."

Sports at Victoria College suf-fered a bad blow last week. Just before a scheduled trip to Chemainus, ace athlete Tom English became ill, and a few hours later, was told he would have to have his appendix re-moved.

Tom, who was captain of the Vic High Totems and a stand-out for the High School soccer team last year, was, until last weekend, maintaining his high athletic standing at the College.

At the beginning of the season, he was elected representative for men's basketball on the Athletic Council by his team ates.

Sadler has scored two shut-outs against Oak Bay and one against Esquimalt. The only goals scored against him were by Mount View in a losing cause; Vic High downed them 5.2

On the other hand, Vic High booters have netted a total of 16 shots in four league games.
Small surprise then that they looked to the senior ranks for adequate competition.

Although Mr. Taylor's team is strong on offense, he attributes his club's success to their almost unbeatable defen sive measures.

Making Sadler's work considerably easier are fullbacks Bill Gower and Henry Ste-fanek, while centre-half Doug Lee, left-half Barry Williams and right-half Brian Ralph leave no room for regrets.. On the forward line there is

right Don Bailard and right wing Phil Myer do their share. Ready to take over at any position are Bill White, Jim Hawthorne, John Balloch and Doug Dempster. What really pleases Mr. Taylor, though, is the ready abundance of suitable players.

"There's a large number of juniors turning out," he stated. "I really could have put in two teams this year."

Add to this the fact that already two juniors. Tom. already two juniors — Tom Wyatt and Robin Barnes— play for the senior team, and it can be easily ascertained the Vic High soccer situation

About 1,300 Victorians who heard the "compelling" rhythms of Elvis Presley Friday night for 10 solid hours, pledged $1,000 to a local radio station children's Christmas Party Fund.

Some were compelled to phone for Presley to continue. Some were compelled to beg he be stopped. Dollarwise, donations from the pro-Presley faction outweighed the anti-Elvis gifts five to one.

Forty-three different recordings were worn thin by constant repetition between the hours of 5 p.m. and 3 a.m. when the disc jockey, Norm Pringle, pranged out.

Arranged By ELIZABETH FORBES
Women's Editor

Their excitement is shining in their eyes, and they're making no effort to be blase about it. With the glamor and thrill of their official debut less than a week away, this coterie of Victoria's loveliest young girls are agog with anticipation. In their attractive formal frocks they will make their bows to His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Frank Mackenzie Ross and Mrs. Ross at the United Services Ball next Friday evening in the Empress Hotel. Pictured here, standing from the left, are: Miss Alix Husband, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband; Miss Elisa Stenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. A Good Copper Cleaner Is a Modern Home 'Must' By PENNY SAVER

In the modern home, copper plays a large part in decorative schemes. Kitchens, living rooms, bedrooms ... every room in the house can have the gleam of copper and be fashionable. A wall rack in the kitchen may hold copper bottomed pots and pans, or your kitchen furniture may have copper highlights. Lamps, dishes and bar accessories in the living room may reflect your choice of metal. With the enjoyment of this attractive color, of course comes the job of keeping it shining. Copper cleaners and their quick-neasy methods are what housewives

Sprinkle the cleaner on the surface of the metal, rub with a damp sponge or cloth and rinse with cold water. Wipe the metal dry and the job is done. I saw two different brands, priced at 49 and 59 cents a tin. It also cleans stainless steel, chrome, nickel and brass.

As well as complementing a smart gown with jewelry, the modern woman can choose a cigaret holder to match or beautifully contrast her outifit. Is a stylish black dress your favorite for the approaching festive season? If so, you'll want the black bone holdep, that is patterned with a floral spray of inlaid silver.

No worries about burning your fingers when removing the cigaret—there's a spring ejector to do the job for you. If you prefer blue, there's one with the black bone stem and a brilliant.

It's from Birks (1-B) for Christmas

Birks in the heart of the 700 Block, Yates Street, offer you 4 Convenient Ways to Aid in Your Christmas Gift

1. YOU MAY PAY CASH

Many of our customers prefer to pay cash at the time they make their purchases. This is, however, only one of several ways in which to shop at BIRKS.

2. MONTHLY CHARGE ACCOUNTS

Many other Birks customers find it convenient to use their monthly Charge Account. Those who prefer this method of payment-and have not already opened a Charge Account-are invited to do so in time for Christmas shopping. The few formalities required can be concluded at the counter with a minimum of delay. , . .

3. BIRKS BUDGET ACCOUNTS

Our Budget Plan is becoming increasingly popular. On any purchase of $15.00 or over, Birks will be pleased to arrange a budget account. This budget plan may be so easily arranged with a down payment as low as 10% (minimum $5.00) and the balance, according to the value of the purchase, may be extended over as long as 12 convenient monthly payments. Any of our staff will be pleased to give you full details on our convenient Budget Plan.

4. BIRKS LAY-AWAY PLAN

Under this convenient plan-much favored by early Christmas shoppers-you pay a small deposit and the article is held for future delivery. The balance is payable either by further deposits or in one final amount, as you Becoming known as a tulip gardener is a racket. You buy some bulbs and put them in the ground; six months later they flower and you get the credit. Is is no use trying to be honest about it, and no use explaining how it happened—there are the blooms, proving you not only to be a genuine expert, but a modest expert to boot.

That is really all there is to it.

The first step is to buy the bulbs, and for this you need about $15. Most of us have little rackets, good for about this amount.

My own racket is to write articles like this one: editors are foolish enough to pay us. On the other hand, bulb dealers are silly enough to take ordinary money for their miraculous bulbs. So all I do is take advantage of both kinds of foolishness.

The next item is some ground

In which to place your bulbs. It you haven't got any, quit living in an apartment and buy a house. The ground goes with the house. The ground goes with the house. It it's sand, you mix in peatmoss. If it's san

But the big pay-off is how you feel yourself. You now have your own tulips and, because they are yours, you look at them more closely than you ever did before. That is all that any tulin asks, just to be any tulip asks—just to be looked at as though you meant it. If you do, you've had it. Right away you will be planning next year's display (not instead of, but as well as: those first tulips will last for years).

I suspect that an expert is one who knows that he doesn't have to do very much. All you really have to do is buy tulips and plant them. Give them bone-meal once a year; otherwise, you can leave them alone. And for this, they will prove you are an expert of the first rank.

The trend is most pronounced in the case of office furniture. Hardwood plywood is used in more than 85 per cent of all more than 85 per cent of all wood furniture manufactured for the home, and the same pattern is emerging in office furniture, the stylists point out. The warmth and richness of woods like mahogany and walnut still dominates the scene, especially in executive offices.

Modern Landscaping Demands New Shrubs

OTTAWA (CP) — An ottawa horticulturist, who says he has "the nicest job in Canada," is developing ground - hugging trees and shrubs to go with the new low-slung, ranch-style Canadian houses.

R. Warren Oliver, 50-year-old chief of the ornamental plants section of the federal agricultural department, thinks Canadians should stop hiding their leaves that will fit modern homes."

We're trying to develop low, flowering shrubs and find smaller trees that will fit modern homes."

With the swing towards suburban living, Mr. Oliver says Canadians are finally realizing that "landscaping is just about as important as the plumbing in their new homes."

A.—The rooting period in pots for early spring bulbs is considered to be six to eight weeks, so that during the seventh week it would be in order to uncover a pot or two and look for white roots at the drainage hole. If they are visible, well and good, if not leave covered for the full eight weeks.

Q.—When are leeks dug and how do you keep them? A. W., Sooke. A.—Leeks may be left in the

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby The grand slam was a very reasonable contract in today's hand, and should have been made. South gave himself a guess without really needing to do so. West opened the ten of hearts, and dummy won with the queen: Without thinking ahead, declarer took the ace of spades and continued with the king and queen.

The spades did not break, and South had to choose a discard on the third round of that suit. After much thought, South discarded a club, since he seemed to have a better chance for four tricks in diamonds than in clubs. The rest of the story is simply told. The diamonds failed to break and South wound with only 12 tricks.

AA7 WAKJ ♦ Q963 ♣ Q742 North-South vul. South West North East I N.T. Pass 7 N.T Pass Pass Pass Opening lead—♥ 10

There was no need for South to suffer this misfortune. The correct play is to save the spades for last and to try out the diamonds and clubs very early.

If South first tries the diamonds, he discovers that the suit doesn't break. He next tries the clubs, and can claim 13 tricks when the suit breaks favorably. Even if both suits fail to break South can still fall both suits.

4-7911 if both suits fail to break, South can still fall back on the spades, having lost nothing by his preliminary plays.

luscs are those having two parts to the shell as the name implies. The two portions are held together by ligaments or interlocking teeth forming a hinge along the back of the animal and as in the gastropods the prime function of the shell is to protect the soft body.

The shells of most clams, oysters and cockles are designed to completely enclose the body when shut, the edges of the shell being such a close fit that not even inquisitive crabs can insert the tips of their pincers. Some clams including the horse clam and in the famous geoduck are unable to completely withdraw the neck or siphons within the shell but these parts have a protection of their own in the form of a tough outer skin. Moreover, the 'clams normally lie buried in shifting sand so they are immune to the attack of the usual predators.

In some bivalves the shell right of the portions are some distance below the surface enclosed in hard, sticky clay.

Two other kinds of piddocks bore into sandstone and other rock even including man-made concrete. The drilling is accomplished by the rough leading edge of the shell which is held against the surface of the rock or concrete by the muscular foot. Holding itself in position the clam rotates its body a few degrees in each direction; it then shifts its hold to the right or left and repeats the scraping action. In this way it drills a circular hole which grows larger and as it moves progressively for left and repeats the scraping action. In. some bivalves the shell takes on a secondary function. In the pectens for example the two valves may be clapped together forcing the water out in a series of jets so that the animal is propelled through the water on an erratic course something like a butterfly in flight. This ability to take off suddenly undoubtedly has survival value in an animal such as the pecten which does not burrow and has no other means of defence.

Still another burrower is the teredo or ship worm which in reality is a clam in which the shells are designed for boring in wood. The drilling is accomplished in exactly the same way as in the case of the pid-dock in rock with the exception that the sawdust is actually swallowed and digested by the mollusc. The wood then not only provides protection for two soft vulnerable body but also ensures a supply of food to augment the material filtered from the water used in respiration. The ship worm or respiration. The ship worm or teredo is one of the few ani-

A number of clams use their shells as tools in excavating burrows in various types of material. The rough piddock which has a shell up to four and a half inches in length digs burrows into hard clay by using the toothed leading edge of the toothed leading edge of the valve to rasp a circular hole. The necks of these burrowing bivalves may be seen extending slightly above the hard bottom below the half-tide level in Oak Bay just east of the boathouse, but it takes an energetic person teredo is one of the few animals that can digest the cellulose in wood fibre, termites and wood-boring beetles being the only others. Fire Area Born

SIDNEY REVIEW - Announcement was made at the annual meeting of Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of vincial government has auth-orized the formation of a fire district to embrace this dis-trict. The report, made by trict. The report, made by the chamber's fire committee head, Commander F. B. Leigh, was enthusiastically received. There was general agreement that this progressive step should have been taken years

The same fire brigade and the same volunteer firemen will continue to fight fires in this area. The only difference will be that costs of the up-keep of the force will be paid past some of those whose property has been protected have paid voluntarily. Others have not paid at all.

It must not be forgotten that the chamber has always been the parent body of the brigade. The chamber has fostered its lusty infant through good days and bad. It has been the only all-em-bracing organization which could have combined fire servcould have combined fire services for Sidney and North Saanich in this way. Some people are not entirely sold in the good deeds of the chamber. But in ensuring continuous fire protection and in spearheading the drive for lower domestic electric rates in this district this year, the chamber surely has vindicated

COWICHAN LEADER -The better the roads and the faster the cars and trucks, the more dangerous becomes travel for the cyclist and pedestrian.

chamber surely has vindicated

No one thinks of allowing a child of 10 or 12 to drive a car on a public highway alone and unaided. The fact that children of tender years ride bicycles on busy thorough-fares calls for constant alertness on the part of the motorist. The motorist must pre-serve a special place in his mind for the child cyclist, imposed by the immature mind of the child himself.

The growth of road traffic should not lull any of us into a comfortable feeling that a good surface is all that a road needs. Wider roads, more rounded and open corners and signs in all built-up areas should accompany the safety

PARKSVILLE - QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS — It seems an oddity that all top candidates for the Progres-sive Conservative party lead-ership are members of the legal fraternity.

These leaders might do well to ask themselves. "Are we, as a party, particularly on the Prairies and on the Pacific Coast, losing our old-time link with the average citizen and his problems? Have we estab-lished ourselves on an intellectual pedestal which awes the man on the street?"

Recent election results in Western Canada would indi-cate that there is a feeling that somewhere in the higher levels of Conservatism the average man and his views are sometimes lost in the shuffle. Delegates to the Con-servative convention at Ot-tawa in December might well

Simonds, Canadian Soldiers Praised by U.K. Magazine

Canada is one of the least warlike of all countries. Her "great" military reputation rests not on generals, but on ordinary soldiers.

That is the conclusion of the British magazine, The Economist, which this week turns over most of its book section to a review of two recent military histories pub-lished in Canada. They are Official History of the Canadian Army in the Second World War, by army historian Col. C. P. Stacey, and Volume the Canadians 1943-45, by Lieut.-Col. G. W. L.

A barg was standing by off-hore and an RCAF Canso from The Economist says the two Sea Island attempted to reach volumes encompass a "great the spot today, but was forced epic." But let's stop fooling ourselves

Sure, Royai Roads lost out to Vancouver in the B.C. junior final and Oak Bay Drakes came within one point of going into the Canadian intermediate final. But how can we honestly refer to these clubs as "our Victoria teams"? At least 80 per cent of the Royal Roads club comes from eastern Canada. The only reason they represented Victoria is that the Canadian Services College happens to be here and we are fortunate to borrow the football services the players learned on the Prairies and in eastern Canada. The Oak Bay Drakes, founded in Victoria and sponsored locally, has a good number of locally-born players who learned their football here. But the main stars of the team, guys like Tommy Sanregret, Rich Ginn, Eno Marchteller, Ted Koska Gordie Hemingway and Joe Kurylo, must be called amateur

I'm not trying to take any credit away from our local players. The point I am trying to get across is that Victoria is not producing it's own top-notch players in sufficient numbers to rank with cities of comparable size on the Prairies and in the average boy who turns out for football here knows only he has picked up from his television set and the idiot box

I am told that the possibility of Canadian football being included on the high school sports curriculum has been dis-cussed loosely in past years, but such talk always petered out for a lack of facts to overcome the obvious objections.

First of all, before the game could be seriously considered.

a full set of facts would have to be presented to the high school sports council and to the principals of every school.

Objections Not Too Difficult

Here are the objections I know would be voiced: The expense would be too great. No school could afford to equip a 24-30-player squad.
 The game is difficult to coach and schools do not like to bring in outside coaches for any sport.

3. A high school league would conflict with a city league league and either one would suffer as a consequence.

Let's try to answer those questions, working backwards.

First of all, the question of conflicting seasons.

Vancouver gets around this problem nimbly by playing their high school football in the spring. Majority of the play-ers complete their prep season and then join a city league team

The other two questions, on expense and coaching, I think, ould be solved by starting with six-man football.

Under a six-man setup, 12 to 15 players could be outfitted for about $400 with equipment that will be good for three or four years. There is a sporting goods store in Seattle that caters to high school teams, selling them used but first-class college equipment at a rock-bottom price.

As for coaching, the six-man game is fast, wide open, and gives every player a solid foundation in the game, but the need for intricate plays and blocking required in 12-man football. The game could be taught easily out of an instruction book by any interested teacher.

Those are just a few ideas I have been nibbling on and I hope to offer more on this topic in the future.

If you have any ideas or opinions, I'd like to hear them. What I would like to see some day is for Victoria to turn out enough good football players so that we can honestly talk about "our Victoria teams."

Cougars Muff Big Chance; Bow to New Westminster

New Westminster 4, Victoria 2

By DENNY BOYD

Victoria's floundering Cougars lost a chance Friday night to gain a hitch on the WHL's whole coast division and coach Colin Kilburn took the blame on his own shoulders, already overburdened with the worries of a team that is going nowhere With Vancouver Canucks and Seattle Americans losing on the prairies, Cougars could have picked up two points on the other tenants of the coast division.

But, as a result of their 42 win over the Cougars, Hal Laycoe's New Westminster Royals made themselves the only ground-gainers. They put themselves into second place a full seven points in advance of the last-place Cougars, and one point ahead of Vancouver.

It was a tough game for Kilburn to talk about when it was layed himself immenself, and why not?

BETWEEN TIMES MONTE ROBERTS

Our Very Own Guide to World Crisis

(After exhaustive study of the interprative reports pouring into this newspaper from pundits all over the world, Between Times has prepared the following handy-dandy all-purpose analysis of what is Really Happening.)

WASHINGTON—The international situation, as evaluated here by high-ranking officials of the State Department, appears to be beeoming more international than ever.

A very high-ranking official, who does not wish to be ofted but who is, indeed, very rank, had this to say:

Quote don't quote me unquote.

But other high-ranking officials take a less grim view the situation although they do state the situation might be grim depending on how you view it.

As for United States participation intervention and concommitance, high-ranking officials are largely silent when they are not talking which is mostly.

Things are apt to get better before they get worse unless they get worse before they get better.

Director William Mackie of the Gonzales observatory explains that to devise the most econom-ical method of producing the de-sired results, the government sometimes uses staffs already in existence instead of establishing new meteorological stations. For many years there has been a radio station at Estevan Point, and as the men are on full-time and as the men are on full-time duty the meteorological service simply makes use of them to record the temperatures, the wind velocity, the precipitation and other data.

YOU SAID TO ME-

A Sunday message of help and comfort for those puzzled, depressed or low in spirit. By ETHEL TULL

You said to me, "I've never been as happy in my life as I've been in the last few months."

I know why you feel that way, and I am sure you will allow me to share with other young folks the story of your happiness. It began with a wonderful experience you had which was shared by a close friend. You had both come into a new way of life, and all your ideas and desires were changing. You had not lost your love of fun and gaiety, but there was a new meaning to it all. You knew what it meant to check your lives, under the scrutiny of the Holy Spirit, with the absolute way taught by our Lord Jesus Christ, and you wanted to count for something in the great battle being fought in the world between the material and the spiritual.

Then you found that you loved card other and of the strict of the new as a new meaning to it all.

You found joy and fun and happing part of a great fellowship working together to try the new way of life. You have to each of the CCF and Social Credit parties.

COWICHAN LEADER The better the roads and the faster the cars and trucks, the more dangerous becomes travel for the cyclist and pedestrian.

No one thinks of allowing a No one thinks of allowing a child of 10 or 12 to drive a car on a public highway alone and unaided. The fact that children of tender years ride bleycles on busy thorough-fares calls for constant alertness on the part of the motorist. The motorist must preserve a special place in his mind for the child cyclist, imposed by the immature mind of the child himself.

The growth of road traffic should not lull any of us into a comfortable feeling that a good surface is all that a road needs. Wider roads, more rounded and open corners and signs in all built-up areas should accompany the safety drill.

PARKSVILLE - QUALICUM PARRSVILLE - QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS — It seems an oddity that all top-candidates for the Progres-sive Conservative party leadership are members of the legal fraternity.

These leaders might do well to ask themselves, "Are we, as a party, particularly on the Prairies and on the Pacific Coast, losing our old-time link with the average citizen and his problems? Have we established ourselves on an intellec-tual pedestal which awes the man on the street?"

Recent election results in Western Canada would indicate that there is a feeling that somewhere in the higher levels of Conservatism the average man and his views shuffle. Delegates to the Con
